

Wes Anderson and Co.

Special Issue editor: Warren Buckland

Editorial

Wes Anderson: A 'smart' director of the new sincerity?

Warren Buckland

Articles

Wes Anderson, tone, and the quirky sensibility

James MacDowell

'Same old song': On audiovisual style in the films of Wes Anderson

Elena Boschi and Tim McNelis

'I'm just a character in your film': Acting and performance from autism to Zissou

Donna Peberdy

A certain age: Wes Anderson, Anjelica Huston, and modern femininity

Cynthia Felando

Wes Anderson and the city spaces of indie cinema

Brendan Kredell

Framing the 'melancomie': Character, aesthetics and affect in Wes Anderson's Rushmore

Deborah J. Thomas

Nostalgically man dwells on this Earth: Objects and domestic space in The Royal Tenenbaums and The Darjeeling Ltd

Stefano Baschiera

Balancing act: Exploring the tone of The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou

John Gibbs

'This is an adventure': The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou and the spectacle of nature documentary

David O'Grady

Fantastic Mr. filmmaker: Paratexts and the positioning of Wes Anderson as Roald Dahl's cinematic heir

Tom Dorey

Review

Review of Mark Browning, Wes Anderson: Why His Movies Matter

Warren Buckland